BRITAIN IS ANXIOUS FOR SALISBURY'S RETIREMENT

Urgent Demand Just Now Is for More Vigor in the Administration of Affairs, and the Venerable Premier Has Proven Himself Unequal to the Demand.

LORD ROSEBERY REGARDED AS AN AVAILABLE SUCCESSOR.

Has Been Careful Not to Commit Himself on the Important Matter of the War Settlement-Significant Letters in the Times Show a Strong Desire for Peace, Even to the Extent of Making Concessions to the Boers.

LORD SALISBURY.

BY HERBERT PAUL.

SPECIAL BY CABLE. London, Nov. 16.-The Prime Minister, In his speech at the Guild Hall on Lord Mayor's Day, assured the company and the world that he could, if he would, disclose facts about the war of a most reassuring character, but prudence compelled him to keep slient.

At the same time he volunteered the needed repose, and whose burdens were too negative information that no proposals of peace had been made on either side. These oracular utterances gave wide scope for conjecture, of which the political and financial gossips were not slow to avail themselves.

Now the secret is out. It was not much of a secret, after all. Lord Salisbury—such is his good nature—did not wish to spoil the effect of the declaration to be made by the effect of the declaration to be made by his juvenile colleague, the Secretary of War, Mr. Brodrick. Accordingly, the latter gave the glad tidings to the City Carlton Club after its dinner on Wednesday night.

The Old Blockhouse Scheme. They were somewhat disappointing, for they were only our old friend, the blockhouse system, with which we have been familiar for months. I do not mean to suggest that the block-house system is a failure. On the contrary, most of the military critics at home-who have not, like the political prophets, been always wrong-be-Heve it to be a success, and that its effects, though slow, will be sure. But it hardly justifies our somnolent Premier in raising hopes by mysterious hints.

A more important result of Lord Salisbury's speech has been to revive rumors of alse early retirement.

Hitherto I have not paid much attention to these reports. Lord Salisbury is not an old man as age counts in politics, and since he left the Foreign Office, a year ago, his duties have been comparatively light, and for a Prime Minister who had not been beaten in the House of Commons to re-sign during the progress of a war for which he is responsible, would be a strange, if great for his strength.

Yet all men agree that an active, incessant vigilance of a master mind, penetrating and directing every department of state, especially the Foreign Office, Colonial Offfice and War Office, was never more urgently needed than it is to-day.

No especially in the circumstances accuse be a change in the composition of the Government enhances the interest with which Lord Rosebery's promised speech to which Lord Rosebery's promised speech to the Liberals of Derbyshire is expected. Lord Rosebery's political friends say he regards the situation as not merely serious but dangerous; that he has no confidence whatever in the Government; that he thinks the Liberal Imperialists have gone too far in support of Mr. Chamberlain, and that he believes in the practicability of peace.

Lord Rosebery's Position. He never, so far as I am aware, has committed himself to anything more ministerial than the proposition that the war was inevitable after the ultimatum, in which almost every Englishman concurs with him. Nothing follows from that proposition. It begins and ends with itself. Lord Rosebery, therefore, is quite free to give the country the benefit of his knowledge and experience in this most anxious and critical period. Mr. Brodrick, following Mr. Chamberlain, who never does things by halves, insists with angry vehemence upon the necessity Kruger and on very bad terms with Rhodes, but he regarded Mr. Kruger as responsible for the war.

It was not long since that he was vigorously contending with Sir William Harcourt in the Times. Now in the same journal he pleads with equal carnestness for peace, advising that the proclamation of banishment should be withdrawn, and that the Boers should be offered practical independence in a federate South Africa under the British flag.

Mr. Robinson is not a gushing sentimentalist, but he knows his own business, and upon the future of South Africa has business depends.

GATI MANN TORPEDO DID NO DAMAGE.

Explosion of 500 Pounds of Gun Cotton Merely Blew Paint Off Armor-Second Failure.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

New York, Nov. 16 .- The second trial of the Gathmann aerial torpedo was made at the Sandy Hook proving grounds this morning and again the new projectile failed to do any damage to the armor target. The armor plate was not even cracked. Practically the entire force of the explosion was expended in the air.

Louis Gathmann admits that practically all of the 500 pounds of wet gun cotton with which the shell was charged was detonated. Yesterday he said he did not breaking all records.

TWO SMALL CHILDREN BURNED.

Two small contains the factor of the shell, an examination of the target was made. It was found that it had been Mother Fatally Hurt in Trying to driven back about eighteen inches, but this was done, the experts said, simply by the impact of the projectile.

The explosion of the gun cotton did no material damage to the armor plate, except in front of the target was displaced and pleces of the metal in the shell were sent ome distance. Gathmann had said that his torpedo would blow the target to atoms. The gun was fired a few minutes before noon at a distance of a mile. A loud report could be heard as the gun was discharged. The shell traveled to the target in three-tenths of a second, and then the report as the 500 pounds of wei gun cotton detonated was terrific.
